

Choosing a Feng Shui Consultant

Beverly Bestpitch

Considering a Feng Shui evaluation?

Reflect for a moment how these items could have a bearing on the outcome of your audit...

Entertainment or Business?

A Feng Shui consultant will not come wearing robes and chanting. This is entertainment. You are hiring qualified consultants with years of study to evaluate your home or office. They are professionals, and will act and dress like any other professional person.

Qualifications

Does this consultant belong to an international group of equally qualified consultants, or are they working solo? While it is true that some situations only need the services of one consultant, other situations require a team. Think of Doctors or Lawyers- the larger the case; a larger team of experts is required.

Lineage

Does the consultant have access to a true Master with verifiable lineage? Or are you considering basing life changes on a practitioner who has only read a couple of books or taken a few courses? Does your practitioner have walls covered with paper from this school or that school? Paper means nothing. Results are what you are after. The world's greatest true masters are unknown to the majority of the world. They are not chasing fame, writing scores of books, or teaching thousands of students. They are busy practicing their craft.

Confidentiality

A professional consultant will not tell you their clients' names. This is confidential information the same as doctor/patient, or lawyer/client privileges. Beware of practitioners that are only too eager to tell you of all their customers' problems and situations. You would not want a consultant sharing your private information, let alone telling the world you used Feng Shui rather than your own hard work to get ahead. Our clients are held in the strictest of confidence.

Does the Consultant offer Off-Site services?

A true Feng Shui consultant must see your property in person. Sending photos and a floor plan simply will not work. You may be asking yourself why? Let me ask you a question, can you smell odors in photos? Or how about a problem that does not show in the photos? Consultants are not psychics. They cannot detect problems unseen beyond what is pictured in the photographs. An important piece of the puzzle may be missing. This piece may contain the key to the problem you are having. You certainly would not want a doctor to diagnose your health problem from a photograph of yourself. That would be impossible! Why do people think consultants are able to diagnose a problem from photographs? You would want to be examined in person, right? The same with your home or office, you certainly want the consultant to view your site in person.

One set formula to all the problems?

Does your practitioner use a “blueprint” for your area in relationship to the front door? Each situation, room, area, and complex is completely different. A doctor doesn’t use a chart to diagnose and give the same response for every situation. Think of it like this, if you went into a doctor’s office with flu like symptoms, you could be having an allergic reaction, or have a cold, or even have SARS. In each case the treatment would certainly be different! Using fixed responses to a specific set of guidelines could have very serious, if not fatal consequences. Doctors do not have a chart to use for every situation, and neither do professional consultants.

Time considerations

Does your practitioner tell you when you should make the changes they have recommended? Time is an integral part of energy work. Imagine this situation: You decide to see a friend you haven’t seen in a long time, and you phone them to meet for lunch. Sounds like a great idea? You can catch up on old times and get current with events in their life. You decide where you are going to meet. The café across the street from the park; you might even decide what to have for lunch during your phone conversation. So you now know WHO is going. You know WHAT you are going to have for lunch, and you know WHERE you are going; but if you do not decide on a TIME, you will certainly miss each other, and the whole meeting will be ruined! If you show up at noon and your friend comes at 2:00 you will miss the golden opportunity to catch each other. It is the same thing with or Feng Shui. TIMING is a key factor in energy work. Be sure the consultant you choose to work with has chosen particular times for you to make the necessary changes. If you don’t use the services of a professional feng shui consultant, you could miss golden opportunities to make the changes work for you.

Follow-up

Will you be able to ask questions later? What if you move? Will your practitioner be available for future services? Our group of professional consultants is available worldwide.

Products

Feng Shui professionals will not try to sell you trinkets for your home or office. If a purple vase could make you rich, why doesn’t every person who owns a purple vase become rich? Just placing a pair of ducks in your bedroom will not create a perfect relationship. Do not confuse someone trying to make a profit selling trinkets with the services of professional classical Feng Shui consultants.

Price

This is always an interesting point, and certainly has its place in any discussion. Does your practitioner offer to do a complete audit for $35.00~ no matter the size of the building? Be careful, you are getting what you pay for! Each client is different, and each fee is based on that particular client’s needs and situation. No one expects lawyers to practice for a set fee, or give the same advice to each and every client. Our professional consultants respond to each situation differently.

It is fascinating to see how many people expect doctors who have spent four years of college, two years of medical school and another two years of internship give out free advice. They don’t work for free, or give out free advice, that would demean their profession. Our professional consultants are the same; they have spent years studying their craft and their fees are appropriate for the job.

To sum up, you consistently get what you pay for. Are you looking for entertainment and decorations, or are you ready to make a serious commitment to your future? When you are ready to improve your situation, the decision is simple. Call a professional Feng Shui consultant.
